The Buntyn HOMESTEAD LANDS FOR SALE.

WE have the pleasure of placing on the market three very desirable and valuable lands. It will be known to the community as the Homestead Tract of the late Geraldus Buntyn, Esq., situated at the fine station on the Memphis and Charleston railroad, five miles east of the city. The improvement, with about twenty acres of land, have been recently sold to Hume F. Hill, Esq., who now resides upon the premises. The balance of the tract, consisting of about 80 acres, has been laid off in lots varying in size from five to ten acres, fronting upon broad avenues, and laid off so as to secure the greatest amount of comfort. The trains of the Memphis and Charleston railroad afford the opportunity of going in and out of the city, from and to Buntyn's station, four times a day, so as to make a residence at his point almost as convenient as to live in the city itself.

The choice can now be had of lots wholly or part in original forest, or in field.

In Exchange for City Property.

The executors are directed by the Will to sell this place and invest in city property, and we will receive propositions to exchange for either improved or vacant lots in the city.

To all parties looking for a suburban residence, we do not think any property more desirable can be found, in regard to health, convenience to good neighborhood, within the same distance from the city.

Th terms will be made very liberal and easy, and the prices now to parties desirous of buying for occupation. Plans of the subdivision will be shown at our office.

MEMPHIS:
SATURDAY, : : : : : JULY 6, 1867

MASONIC INTELLIGENCE.

From the Masonic Eclectic.

THE SAINTS JOHN.

[CONCLUDED.]

Dr. Oliver says that the Kilwinning Lodge (Scotland) is said to have retained the name of "St. John's Brethren" on account of having built a church at Kelso, dedicated to that saint. And secondly, the stress laid by Dr. Oliver and others on the observance of St. John's days prior to 1717, can, I believe, also be explained by an acquaintance with the manners and customs of the English people during the middle ages. It will be seen that the Saints John's days was not a festival peculiar to the Masons, but was observed during Catholic supremacy by all the guilds at their festivals.

In Hone's "Year Book," page 985, says a writer, "St. John the Baptist's day was a high day with the Catholics in the middle ages, and on it their guilds appeared with unusual splendor." Clarkson, in his history of Richmond, in Yorkshire, says: "They (the guilds) used to make solemn procession through the town on St. John's day with the portable shrines of St. John, and torches lighted, bearing the host in a tabernacle, with banners and colors flying, and masses, dirges, etc., were said for the prosperity of the brethren and sisters; they also collected money for the poor brethren and sisters," etc.

It will readily be perceived that the writer speaks of guilds, which includes all the trade societies then in existence. I may here mention that that custom must have extended all over England, as in London the cheries are still chosen annually by the "Liedeg," or the brothers of their guides, on Midsummer's day, June 24th; that day is also termed "quarter's day" for the collection of rents and taxes, etc.

Now as the Freemasons were never numbered among the guilds in England, it is evident that they must have borrowed the custom of meeting on the 24th of June, because that day was the adopted day of all other trades, and when it was found necessary by them to hold quarterly meetings, they incidentally adopted for that purpose the day next following the Evangelist's day. In Scotland, ever since the formation of their Grand Lodges (1736), their festivals were held on St. Andrew's day; and as already stated, since 1833 the English Grand Lodge held their annual festival on New Year's day next following St. George's day. I have shown that the legend of the Grandmastership of the St. Johns are neither true nor ancient; the fable, etc., were introduced for the purpose of Christianizing the Craft. This, I think, I conduct is inconsistent with Masonic doctrines no honest man can deny; the universality of the dedication to the saints can no longer be pleaded, as England has discarded the practice. Why, I ask, should Masons be governed by an unjust, unfruitful and outrageously inconsistent, while in England it is maintained in accordance with the principles of Justice, Truth and Consistency?

From the National Freemason:

WOULD IT NOT DO NOW?

1811, in a Lodge in England it having transpired that some members had imprudently been conversing on Masonic matters with those who were not connected with the fraternity, they were severely reprimanded by the Master, and told that the conduct of which they had been guilty was a gross insult, not only to Masons generally, but to that especial Lodge in particular.

We have been told valuable Masonic information by non-Masons, about adverse ballots, discussions in the Lodge-room, etc. No Lodge should hesitate to take action in such cases, under any specious pretext.

Men who cannot keep "silence," or who cannot keep our charitable lessons well on our moral law, we have no use for. What say our Brethren, shall there be a reform? and what Lodge will be the first to act upon the frequent and flagrant disregard of solemn injunctions?

At February Lodge, 1811, it was stated that a Brother had been guilty of unmasonic conduct, and his discipline was determined upon. The Senior Warden delivered the following charge in laying before the Lodge the grounds for expulsion:

Right Worshipful Master and Brethren, I am extremely sorry that I feel myself constrained, not only from the imperious duty imposed on me by filling the office of Senior Warden of this Lodge, but also from my attachment to our ancient and honorable Fraternity, and a strong anxiety to see its sacred tenets, precepts, constitutions and maxims violated, and its landmarks and usages encroached upon, to lay before your worship certain charges against a member of our respectable Lodge. It is very far from my wish or inclination unnecessarily even to trouble your worship or the Lodge on any trifling or unimportant matter, and much less is it my object to state circumstances which may at all appear to interrupt the cultivation of brotherly love, the foundation and cope-stone, the cement and glory of this ancient Fraternity, and which ought to subsist among us; but when the established Constitutions of our Order and the general regulations of the Craft, which have stood the test of ages, are infringed, and our laws trampled under foot, I must confess that I feel a[illegible] indignation which I cannot conceal, and in which case, indeed (to use the words of the Bishop of Landaff, who is, I believe, a member of our society), "would be rejection over neglect criminality," I therefore, however, I make my charge, I conceive it will not be improper to state the authorities on which I ground my proceeding, and which I imagine will amply bear me out. The first I shall refer to, and which is of the highest utility in our excellent "Book of Constitutions," in which are contained "The old charge of the Free and Accepted Masons, collected from their old records at the command of the Grand Master, approved by the Grand Lodge, and ordered to be printed in the first edition of the "Constitutions, March 25, 1722"—the fourth section of which, under the heading "Behavior in presence of Strangers not Masons," it shall beg leave to state, "You shall be cautious in your words and carriage, that the most penetrating stranger shall not be able to discover or find out what is not proper to be intimated, and sometimes you shall divert a discourse and manage it prudently for the honor of the worshipful fraternity." I shall also beg leave to state a part of the sixth section, viz: "Behavior towards a strange Brother" "You are cautiously to examine him in such a method as prudence shall direct you, that you may not be imposed upon by an ignorant, false pretender, who you are to reject with contempt and derision, and beware of giving him any hint of knowledge." Thus far our old charges, the spirit of which, and, indeed, very nearly the words themselves, are transfused into our very worthy, learned and indefatigable Bro. Preston's "Charge on the Investiture of Masons to be delivered at closing the Lodge," given in his valuable and scientific "Illustrations of Masonry," of which I shall make further use. The first passage in this admirable work I shall refer to is contained in the charge given on initiation into Masonry, and is as follows: "In your outward demeanor you are to avoid censure or reproach, and beware of all who may artfully endeavor to insinuate themselves into your esteem, with a view to betray your virtuous resolutions, or make you swerve from the principles of the institution. Let not interest favor or prejudice your integrity, or influence you to be guilty of a dishonorable action, but let your conduct be uniform, and your deportment suitable to the dignity of the profession."

The next passage, in the charge given on the initiation into the second degree, in which the newly admitted fellow-craft is directed strenuously to support and maintain the laws and regulations of the Order, and in conclusion he is informed that the duties thereinbefore mentioned he is "bound to observe by the most sacred ties." But I now proceed to a much more important passage, contained in the charge relating to the third and highest degree of Craft Masonry, authorizing a Brother in the character of a Master Mason to correct the errors and irregularities of brethren and fellows, and guard them against a breach of fidelity. To improve the morals and correct the manners of each society, he is told, should be his constant care, and with such view he should always recommend to inferiors obedience and submission; to equals, courtesy and affability; to superiors, kindness and condescension; to inculcate universal benevolence; and by the regularity of his own behavior to afford the best example for the conduct of others. The ancient landmarks of the Order entrusted to his care should be preserved sacred and inviolable, and never suffer an infringement of our rites, or a deviation from established usage and custom. "Duty, honor and gratitude now bind you to be faithful to every trust, to support with becoming dignity your new character, and to enforce by example and precept the tenets of the system. Let no motive, therefore, make you swerve from your duty, violate your vows, or betray your trust, but be true and faithful, and imitate the celebrated example of that celebrated artist whom you have represented. By this exemplary conduct you will convince the world that merit has been the title to our privileges, and that on you our favors have not been undeservedly bestowed."

I shall lastly refer to a very ingenious treatise of Bro. Hutchinson, entitled "The Spirit of Masonry." The first quotation I shall make from this treatise is included in a charge delivered by Bro. Hutchinson (who presided for several successive years over the Barnard Castle Lodge of Concord), to several initiated brethren:

"And this leads me to recommend to you a particular care and circumspection, that you betray not our distinguishing marks and characteristics to any stranger, nor to your nearest and dearest relation, nor most intimate and confidential friend. It will be prudent in you, at least for some time, not to exhibit them to a brother, except in a Lodge, or where you well know your company. Time and patience will fully evince to you the importance of this precaution. You will keep a strict guard over your discourse, Mind the inadvertent eye, the quick ear, or the most penetrating observations may not possibly discover what ought to be concealed; and if you meet with prying, inquisitive people, endeavor to turn and divert the discourse; but beware of manifesting any offense of disconfiture."

CLOSING ODE, R. A.

Now in peace our labors closing,
And our toils all ended,
Still our confidence reposing,
Friendly thoughts we here renew,
When the fleeting day declines us
Bring the last great cause of time,
May the Guiding Hand Protect the[illegible] over us
Gather all in Heaven's own clime.

Humble at Thine altar kneeling,
Hear us, Father, hear, we pray;
Thou whose eye doth watch us sleeping,
Kindly keep us through life's day;
Guide us, Heavenly Father, guide us,
Cleanse our thoughts from every stain;
Let Our peace of Thy pure spirit
Be our soul's delight and aim.

G. L. OF KENTUCKY.—This G. L. was regularly organized on the 16th day of October, 1800, and the following brethren were elected Grand Officers: W. Bro. William Murry, M. W. G. Master; W. Bro. Alexander Macgregor, Deputy Grand Master; W. Simon Adams, Senior, and Cary L. Clarke, P. M., Junior Grand Wardens, all respectively installed according to ancient form. James Russell, Grand Secretary; John A. Seitz, Grand Treasurer; Thomas Hughes, Senior Grand Deacon; Nath. Williams, Junior Grand Deacon; Samuel Shepherd, Grand Pursuivant; John Bobbs, Grand Tyler—duly installed.

The society for the relief of half orphan and destitute children, was established in New York in March, 1806. Its asylum is No. 67 West Tenth street.

This institution has been sustained by our best citizens, and is managed by ladies whose circumstances and reputation place them above suspicion. During the year 112 children have been received, 70 have been returned to their parents; 18 have been placed in situations; 4 have been taken care of during the year, and 2967 since the asylum opened.

No child is received under four or over 10 years of age. Parents pay seventy-five cents a week, monthly in advance, and provide shoes.

We find some Masons giving as high as fifty dollars to this institution during the year. The donations from Craftsmen are receivable. It is a worthy object, affording a safe home to little ones whose unfortunate parents can provide but moderately for their wants.—National Freemason.

DECISIONS OF THE GRAND MASTER OF NEW YORK, AND OF A COMMITTEE OF THE GRAND LODGE, JUNE, 1866.

[CONCLUDED.]

The Committee of the Grand Lodge say, of these decisions:

We think that the proposition in the ninth question, that a Lodge retains jurisdiction over rejected candidates who live nearer to a Lodge U. D., established after the rejection, should be qualified with the remark, which was doubtless intended to have been made, that the consent of the Lodge U. D. must first be obtained.

As to the tenth question, we have only to say that this Grand Lodge has more than once affirmed the right of taxation by Subordinate Lodges for Masonic purposes.

"II. We think that the Grand Lodge of Connecticut err in their conclusion that residents of that State should be admitted in regular Lodges out of that jurisdiction are clandestine. It is not the fact of such making that makes them clandestine, not even when the Lodge has acted improperly; but there must be fault in the candidate. If his conduct be unblameless, we hold that, being made in a regularly constituted Lodge, he must be recognized as regular throughout the world. A candidate cannot be supposed to be acquainted with the laws and regulations of the Fraternity, unless there be proof of knowledge; but the Lodge, if it acted improperly in any manner in receiving and acting upon his proposition, may and should be subject to discipline by the proper Grand Lodge, a corrective which the Grand Lodge of New York will never fail to apply in every proper case.

"III. To the question as to what is the status of a candidate rejected on his application, and who seems to be made upon the supposition that an objection once made is an insuperable bar to further progress, without being renewed or without further balloting, we would reply, that the candidate may ask for a new ballot at each successive meeting of the Lodge, provided such application be over one regular meeting. Discretion will, of course, be used to prevent annoyance by repeated ballotings, when it is well known that it will be in vain. The decision made in 1864, 'that such objection shall be a bar to the further progress of the candidate until withdrawn,' is not at variance with the principles here laid down. It only means that the objection must be waived whenever application for a new ballot is made, and not that once having been made it remains in force although 'the Brother so objecting be accidentally taken away,'—to quote the language of the interrogatory.

"IV. That when a year has elapsed after a favorable ballot on the question of initiation, and after a demand for a new ballot had been made and laid over, and the candidate had not been notified to come forward for initiation, the Lodge has lost all jurisdiction over him, and the candidate can be proposed in a second Lodge and initiated without recourse to the former Lodge.

"IX. A warranted Lodge rejected a candidate and a year afterward a Lodge under dispensation was created, and the candidate was found to live nigher to the Lodge U. D. than to the warranted Lodge, subsequently that Lodge made the candidate, and the Lodge U. D. applied to me to make an order that the initiation fee be paid over to that Lodge. I decided adversely to the application on the ground that the warranted Lodge had full jurisdiction of the candidate before the Lodge U. D. was established, and that such jurisdiction was continuous and unbroken.

"X. That the power of a Lodge to assess its members is not absolute; and when objection is made to the assessment, its propriety should be submitted to and approved by some higher power before the assessment can become binding. If an assessment can be made for $100 per capita. A Lodge may dissipate its funds and assess its members; or it may levy an assessment for a purpose not strictly Masonic. It will be for one of your committees to regulate this important feature of law.

"XI. That Lodges U. D. have the right to affiliate Masons."

DISFRANCHISEMENT.

HENRY GRATTAN, speaking on the Catholic question, in the Irish Parliament, in 1793, said, in language as applicable now and to the United States, as it was then to England and Ireland;

"I have heard of Athens, that cruel republic, excluding so many of her own children from the rights of Citizenship; but she had only the wisdom of SOCRATES and the light of PLATO: she had not, like you, revelation to instruct her; besides, she had not the press,—she had not the benefits of your lesson. What lesson? That to a people it is not life, but the condition of living, that is essential, and that to be bound without your own consent, was to be a slave.

"You are struggling with difficulties, you imagine; you are mistaken; you are struggling with impossibilities. To enchain the mind, to case in the volatile essential soul, nor tower, nor dungeon, much less Parliament, can be retentive of those fires kindled by yourselves in the hearts of your fellow-subjects. * * *

"What human sacrifices have we offered? The dearest; the liberties of our fellow-subjects. Distrust again that fallacious policy which tells you your power is advanced by their bondage; it is not your power, but your punishment; it is liberty without energy; you know it. It presents you with a monopoly; and the monopoly of others, not your own. It presents you with the image of a monster, in a State where the heart gives no circulation, and the limbs receive no life; a nominal representative, an i a nominal people. Call not this your misfortune; it is your execution. Never could the law of Nature suffer one set of men to take away the liberty of another, and that of a numerous part of their people, without a diminution of their own strength and freedom. . . . Never was it permitted to any Nation; they may perplex their understandings with various apologies, but never was it permitted to exclude from essential, what they themselves have proclaced essential blessings, a great portion of themselves for periods of time, and for no reason, or what is worse, for such reason as you have advanced.

"Conquerors, or tyrants proceeding from conquerors have scarcely ever for any length of time governed by these partial disabilities; but a people so to govern itself, or rather, under the name of government, so to exclude itself, the industrious, the opulent, the useful; that part that feeds you with its industry, and supplies you with its taxes, weaves that you may wear, and ploughs that you may eat, to exclude a body so useful, so numerous, and that forever; and in the mean time to tax them ad libitum, and occasionally to pledge their lives and fortunes! for what? For their disfranchisement. It cannot be done; continue it, and you expect from your laws what it were blasphemy to ask of your Maker. Such a policy always turns on the inventor and bruises him under the stroke of the sceptre or the sword, or sinks him under accumulation of debt and loss of dominion. Need I go to instances? What was the case of Ireland, enslaved for a century, and withered and blasted with her Protestant ascendancy, like a shattered oak scathed on its hill by the fires of its own intolerance. What lost England America, but such a policy? An attempt to bind men by a Parliament wherein they are not represented; such an attempt as some would now continue to practise on the Catholics and involve England. What was it saved Ireland to England, but the contrary policy? I have seen these principles of liberty verified by yourselves. I have heard addresses from counties and cities here on the subject of the slave trade to Mr. WILBERFORCE, thanking him for his efforts to set free a distressed people; has your pity traversed leagues of sea to sit down by the black boy on the coast of Guinea; and have you forgot the man at home by your side, your poor brother?"

The people of the Northern States are as deaf as adders to all such lessons pronounced by the Past. Pursuing the ungenerous and vulgar policy of revenge and oppression, and laying up abundant treasure of eternal discontents and animosities, they must in the end "sink under accumulation of debt and loss of dominion."

MILTON'S picture of the condition of England during the reign of that Parliament to which CROMWELL at length put an end, is strikingly applicable, changing a word here and there, to the violent and usurped domination of the Scald Congress of two-thirds of the United States, who "after many labours, much bloodshed and vast expense" have brought the people "to ridiculous frustration." For, as soon as active war ended, "straight every one betook himself, (setting the Commonwealth behind, his private ends before), to do as his own profit or ambition led him. Then was justice delayed and soon after denied: spite and favour determined all; hence faction, hence treachery: everywhere wrong and oppression; foul and horrid deeds committed daily, or maintained in secret or in open. Many who had been called" from low places and the purlieus of corruption, without merit or fitness, to sit in the Senate and House of Representatives, and some who had bribed the Legislative electors with money, and thereto owed their seats, "fell (as their breeding was), to huckster the Commonwealth." They rewarded treachery and the apostacy of renegades with pardons and favours; and those "who would, under cover of hypocritical zeal, insinuate basest, enjoyed unworthily the rewards of loyalty and fidelity, or escaped the punishment of their crimes and misdeeds. Their votes and ordinances, which men looked should have continued the repealing of bad laws, and constitution of better, ing else but new exercises; yearly tured and abandoned private folly here as it was there, to "abandon the idea of governing by affection, and adopt the idea of coercion in its place." The situation here, as it was there, is nothing more nor less than preparation to render the Southern mind completely hostile to the Northern States. Here, also, it is true to say: "The mad Athenian, when he disqualified for a few bushels of corn, a part of his fellow-citizens, was not so frantic. The mad Greek, who in the last moments of his existence refused the assistance of the West, damned the Cardinal and gave up his Empire, was not more frantic."

The United States may soon have on their hands a foreign war. "Then they would be ruined by the hostility of the South, and even by her neutrality." "The King who takes away the liberty of his subject, loses his crown: the people who take away the liberty of their fellow subjects, lose their Empire."

MAXIMILIAN.

We take the following very just and appreciative article upon MAXIMILIAN from the Chicago Times:

Maximilian is, or, if dead, was, a brother of Francis Joseph, the present emperor of Austria. He was born in 1832; and, consequently, at the time of the reported shooting, he was thirty-five years of age. Ten years ago the present month he married Maria Carlotta, a daughter of Leopold, the late king of Belgium.

Maximilian, before being induced to undertake the government of Mexico, held the rank of archduke, and was also the commander of the Austrian navy. His prospects were of the most dazzling kind; for he not only occupied a prominent position in one of the oldest and most powerful nationalities of Europe, but there was a not remote probability that he might some day succeed to the throne of Austria.

Not merely was his standing high, his future promising, but he occupied a marked position in Europe on account of his superior abilities, his great cultivation, and, above all, his liberality. He did not share in scarcely a single particular the haughty and unyielding adherence to traditions so characteristic of the Austrian house of Hapsburg. On the contrary, he was progressive and democratic, and was an ardent supporter of the reforms and concessions which were being forced from the unwilling Austrian emperor. What Francis Joseph unwillingly yielded to escape bankruptcy, Maximilian favored granting as a matter of right.

His connection with the unfortunate Mexican enterprise is well known, although occurring at a time when this country was absorbed in the fearful war which began in 1861. It is not, however, so well known as it should be that, in his acceptance of the Mexican throne, nothing was farther from his thought than the idea of usurpation. He was too democratic, too liberal, too generous to attempt to overthrow the liberty of any people; and hence the term "Austrian usurper," which was so universally applied to him in this country, however correct in respect to his position, was entirely incorrect when referred to his intentions.

When the French, Spanish and English people projected an expedition against Mexico, it was ostensibly to collect unpaid claims, and as such, the movement was approved by the United States secretary of state. But when the English and Spanish withdrew from this tripartite alliance; how the French, backed by the influential church party of Mexico, gradually changed their programme from the collection of French claims into one having for its object the "regeneration" of Mexico; and how the victorious French army of Bazaine, early in 1863, after routing the opposing Mexicans, reached the capital in triumph—are all matters of well known history.

Two months later—just four years ago—an assembly of notables composed of 215 Mexicans met in Mexico and declared for an imperial government, with only two dissenting votes. A deputation at once proceeded to Europe and offered the crown to Maximilian.

Now, it cannot be charged that, in thus accepting what was offered him by what appeared to be the unanimous wish of the Mexican people, Maximilian was assuming the role of a usurper, nor is it true that the French emperor was wholly to blame. He started the expedition against Mexico simply to collect French claims and to preserve the liberties of French subjects; the subsequent material alterations in his plans were made at the instigation of the church party in Mexico. It is thus partly upon whom rests the chief responsibility of organizing an imperial government. It is usual to term Maximilian the dupe of Napoleon. Perhaps he was so; but he was, at the same time, a much greater dupe at the hands of an influential party of native Mexicans.

It will be remembered that it was a year after the deputation of notables visited Maximilian that he concluded to accept the Mexican throne, and then only after repeated and pressing assurances that the acceptance was ardently wished by the vast majority of the Mexican people. It will also be recollected that one of his first acts after his triumphal entry into Mexico was to pardon all prisoners who had been condemned for political offences; and moreover, that in attempting to invite a consultation with some of the Mexican liberals, his messengers were shot in accordance with the usages of Mexican civilization.

It should be remarked here that the failure of Maximilian is not one whit owing to Juarez and the liberals, but to the very church party by whom he was invited to the Mexican throne. Failing to stop the sale of the church property which it had ordered before the French occupation, he brought himself into collision with the powerful church element, and therefrom dates the beginning of his downfall.

Sufficient has been written to show that Maximilian was no usurper, in intent; and that, from his antecedents, and his actions while upon the Mexican throne, he was deserving of a better fate than assassination.

If he be dead, there is yet a finale to the affair, which is beginning and can exist among the crowned heads of Europe.

It is urged that the execution of the Emperor was justifiable, on account of an order issued by him, directing that all guerilleros taken with arms in their hands should be shot. That penalty has often been denounced against persons who violate the laws and usages of war, or who, belonging to no regular command and forming no part of any regular force, engage in private assassination. This was done by WELLINGTON, when he entered France from Spain in 1814; and the United States followed the example in the late war.

The contest in Mexico seems to have been carried on with the same ferocity as that between the French and Spanish in the Peninsular war, and the Carlist and Christinists in 1832, with bloody reprisals on each side and the greatest atrocities. But, nevertheless, if the Indian JUAREZ has put MAXIMILIAN to death, he has made himself and Mexico infamous.

As to the struggle itself, it was not for popular freedom, against oppression. The people of Mexico have in reality no voice in public affairs. They have always been the mere tools of ambitious chiefs, who have only sought to gain power for themselves. Constitutional government in that country has never been anything more than a sham and a farce; and it is the greatest possible misfortune for Mexico that NAPOLEON did not maintain MAXINILIAN on the throne. Yet we do not see why he should be accused of abandoning him. He certainly never promised that he would always sustain him by French bayonets. He placed him on the throne to which he was formally invited, and was certainly in no undue haste to withdraw the French troops. If he had kept them longer in the country, he would have been justly accused of imposing upon the Mexicans a government against their will, a foreign monarch only maintained on the throne by foreign bayonets. When the French troops retired, it was for MAXIMILIAN to determine whether he could rely on the will of the Mexicans themselves, or under a throne which he could not ainst their will. Was NAPOLEON y higher obligations to maintore than Austria was? It is MAXIMILIAN believed he in himself, and so, but for meddling of the United ly would have done.

"HIS TONGUE MORE POISONOUS THAN THE ADDER'S TOOTH."

In one of WENDELL PHILLIPS' late harangues he said:

"We are surrounded by childless mothers and orphans; we have mortgaged the right hand of this generation and the next to pay $3,000,000,000; we have taken the comforts from this generation; we have filled half a million patriot graves."

Aye, knave! and all done to have the satisfaction of whipping back into the Union three or four States that would never have left it if Massachusetts and Connecticut, Wisconsin and other of the Northern States had not perjuriously violated the Constitution; and which, moreover, if they had been allowed to try the experiment of a separate Government, would have sickened of it, and returned into the Union in five years. Mr. WENDELL PHILLIPS, and others like him, who declared the Constitution to be "a compact with hell," did not wish South Carolina, Florida and Mississippi to return. They did not wish that the other Southern States should not secede. They wished for war, in order that slavery might be destroyed, and some millions of profitable labourers become idlers, paupers, vagabonds and criminals. For this they pushed LINCOLN into a war upon the South. For this, they have not only surrounded themselves, but filled the South "with childless mothers and orphans." The South had the right to secede, if it wished. It was under no obligation to remain in the Union when to do so became injurious to it. Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas were not under obligations to recognize any more tadpole States as their equals.

In the denial of this right, the North was recreant to its own pretended principles; and in making war upon the South it committed an immense crime. PHILLIPS pictures some of the consequences of the crime. The picture is not half dark enough. The debt is nearer five than three thousand millions. The war has demoralized more men who still live than those who fill "patriot graves." Crime is rife and insolent and audacious all over the Northern land. The Clergy and the Teachers are corrupted. Murder and rape are chronicled daily: and seventy per cent. of the convicts are returned soldiers.

Aye, we do rejoice to see the poisoned chalice commended to the lips of the North. The South is manacled and helpless. Shall she not rejoice that the Omnipotent God is her just avenger?

NEW BOOKS.

We are indebted to Messrs. LEYPOLDT & HOLT, publishers, of New York, for a copy each of "Fathers and Sons," a novel, by IVAN SERGHEIEVITCH TURGENEF, translated from the Russian, with the approval of the author, by EUGENE SCHUYLER, Doctor of Philosophy, etc., which is certainly one of the most intensely interesting romances coming under our notice in a very long time, and we assure our lady readers is worth a score of SUE's, or the other paper covered novels with which the shelves of too many of our booksellers are so often crowded. "A Man with a Broken Ear," by Abot, from the same publisher, is a singularly weird, without being a fantastic story, of absorbing interest, and a decided improvement upon, while it resembles in construction, BULWER's "Strange Story," and "Zanoni," very popular some years since. The Messrs. PATTISON & Co., booksellers on North Court street, have both these interesting fictions for sale, and either are worthy the attention of the railway traveler, or of individuals who wish a good thing to read during the leisure hours of summer.

CONGRESSIONAL NEWS.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Congress reassembled at noon to-day, and pursuant to the joint resolution of March 20th, its roll was immediately called in both houses and a quorum was found to be present. In the senate were seven more senators than were needed for a quorum, and in the house there was an excess of thirty seven members over a quorum. In the senate the western absentees were: Davis and Guthrie, of Kentucky; Doolittle, of Wisconsin; Hendricks and Morton, of Indiana; Norton, of Minnesota; Sherman, of Ohio; Conness and Cole, of California, and Williams and Corbett, of Oregon. It is understood that Morton will not attend this session, not being able to endure the fatigue of the journey from the Hot Springs, Ark.

Before the calling of the roll Mr. Sumner jumped up and protested against the constitutionality of the resolution under which the session was convened. His point was that if there had not been a quorum present the presiding officers could not adjourn the body sine die, but that those who were present would have the right to adjourn from day to day and send for absentees.

Mr. Trumbull replied with a protest against Mr. Sumner's protest, and no action was taken.

Immediately after the roll call Mr. Sumner poured in a volley of bills, petitions and resolutions, on various subjects.

Mr. Fessenden objected, and a short debate between the two ensued, in which Mr. Fessenden declared his opposition to the introduction of any subject not directly connected with reconstruction, while Mr. Sumner held it to be the duty of congress to act upon everything that came before it. From the manner in which Mr. Fessenden's remarks were received, it is evident that the sense of the senate is that nothing but reconstruction shall be passed upon.

When bills were called for nearly everybody had one on the subject of reconstruction. Six were introduced and referred. They were all to the same purpose, and intended to settle the question opened by the decision of the attorney general.

A committee was appointed to meet from the house to wait upon the president, but it had no report up to the time of adjournment. The reason was the failure of the committee to find the president at home, he having gone off to a college commencement, seemingly oblivious of the convening of congress. He remarked, however, to a democratic senator, this morning, that he looked upon the meeting as one after a recess, and that he had communicated in writing to the session at a former stage.

In the house the attendance of spectators was much larger than in the senate, and the interest was far greater. Nearly every republican member was in his seat and about a dozen democrats appeared on the opposite side.

A long debate sprung up on the question of swearing in the Kentucky members, and finally it was agreed to refer the credentials of all of them to the committee on elections, to inquire into their "loyalty," and the legality of their election. A very earnest two hour debate took place, in which Messrs. Logan, Schenck and Brooks took the most active part. The latter declared that a civil revolution was impending in the north, which would be hastened if the house threw out the Kentucky delegation.

The most important event of the day was the adoption of the resolution offered by Mr. Elliot, of Massachusetts, confining the business of the session exclusively to reconstruction. The rules were suspended by more than a two-third vote, and the resolution was adopted by 90 yes to 36 noes.

The yeas and nays were not called, but those favoring impeachment (Butler, Schenck, Williams, etc.) voted in the negative. This strong vote caused some surprise among the extreme men, for it settled the fact of a very short session, say ten days or two weeks.

A resolution, with Thad. Stevens as chairman of a committee of nine, was adopted to prepare a supplemental reconstruction bill.

This committee will be appointed on Friday. In the meantime a senatorial caucus had decided to the same effect. So it is fully settled that the session will be brief and devoted wholly to the reconstruction question.

Both houses have adjourned until Friday.

Notwithstanding the order of the house to-day to do no business but consider reconstruction, it will not prevent the mere submission of the report of the judiciary committee on impeachment. The report now in course of preparation will be laid before the house next week, but it cannot be discussed during the present session.

It is freely asserted in administration quarters to-night that in view of the certain action of congress on the powers of military commanders, that nothing will be done by the president toward reinstating the southern officials displaced by military orders.

A committee specially appointed by the secretary of the treasury to examine affairs of that department are now engaged in an investigation, that nothing will be done by the president toward reinstating the southern officials displaced by military orders.

A committee specially appointed by the secretary of the treasury to examine affairs of that department are now engaged in an investigation, that nothing will be done by the president toward reinstating the southern officials displaced by military orders.

Two of the foreign legations to-day have forwarded to Paris and Vienna confirmatory details of the execution of Maximilian. Secretary Seward is represented as being astounded at the news finally proving true. He was as usual hopeful to the last that Maximilian would be saved.

The business of the session having been settled to-day five or six members, among them Allison, of Iowa, and Keecham, of New York, left for home to-night.

The evidence in the Surratt trial to-day against the prisoner, shows him as being in Washington on the day of the assassination. The defense state that they will prove beyond a doubt that he was in Elmira, New York, on that day. The jury are to have a picnic to-morrow, in charge of a proper officer.

Judge, Wayne, of the supreme court, is better.

There will be no observance here of to-morrow beyond a general suspension of all business, public and private.

[WESTERN ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTS.]

NEW ORLEANS, July 5.—Red river levee in front of Alexandria, La., gave way on the night of the 28th ult., flooding the lower portion of the town, but the break was promptly repaired by the citizens. On the night of the first inst. it broke again. A dispatch says that the only way for the town to escape overflow is for the river falling.

LOUISVILLE, July 5.—The river is falling and four feet five inches in the canal.

Hon. Lazarus W. Powell, formerly governor of this state and subsequently United States senator, died in Henderson, Ky., on Wednesday afternoon.

FOREIGN.

PARIS, July 3.—The news of the dead fate of Maximilian has been received, and in consequence, the grand review to-morrow, together with the imperial fetes in honor of the sultan of Turkey, have been countermanded by the emperor. The celebration of the Fourth by the Americans of Paris, together with those visiting the continent, and for which great preparations had been made at the Precadation in the Bois de Bologne, did not take place, the arrangements having been brought to a close by the news of the death of Maximilian.

Messrs. Vanderbrock & Bros., American bankers here, have suspended. They ask from their creditors a year to enable them to pay over one half the claims against them. Their depositors have suffered heavily. The Vanderbrocks were the favorite bankers with the Americans from the southern states, and the leading men of the Confederacy during the war.

ROTTERDAM, July 3.—The anniversary of the great Prussian victory over the Austrians at Sadowa, was celebrated in grand style to-day. King William of Prussia had an enthusiastic reception. New colors were presented to the regiments which took part in that decisive fight, together with a fine military display.

BERLIN, July 3.—Berlin was brilliantly illuminated after the celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Sadowa to-day. Flags and streamers floated on every side during the day, which was made joyous by all.

WANTED—THE PATENT

AURORA OIL.

We want men everywhere to study their own INTEREST. The right to manufacture and sell the Patent Aurora Oil in a single county will make more money to the purchaser in three months than the largest farm in your State will make in a whole year. The Aurora Oil actually sells for one-half the price of Coal Oil, and the illuminating power of the Aurora Oil is so much superior to the Coal Oil that it is the cheapest oil in a fair trial, and is no more explosive than a tallow candle. Any farm that will turn Coal Oil will burn the Aurora Oil. It does not smoke the chimney, it does not smell—it will not grease or gum the finest linen—not even white cloth. The material for its manufacture is inexhaustible. One man can make seventy-five barrels per day. No machinery required. We will pay your fare to and from the city of Memphis and balk while here, if we cannot prove all and even more, than what we have stated. A single county is a small portion to the men of enterprise, and the right to a State is indeed worth.

TO THE PATRONS OF THE APPEAL.

The carriers will be around this morning to collect their weekly dues. We hope you will be ready with your quarters, as they will then be able to settle with the office. Further, we hope you will, for the carriers' convenience, erect boxes at your gates, or cut holes in your doors, that the papers may be placed so that none but yourselves can get them, as Memphis is now infested with paper thieves.

BURGLARY.—Two trunks and contents valued at two hundred dollars were the results of a burglarious entrance into Mr. H. Arthur's residence on the corner of Market and Front streets, early yesterday morning. No arrests.

DULL BUSINESS.—Fourth of July recreation failed to materially improve the condition of the metropolitan police exchequer. Only eighteen cases were tried yesterday morning and forty-two dollars collected.

FUNERAL.—The lamented S. T. Morgan, Esq., whose death caused such a profound impression throughout the city when announced Thursday, was buried that morning. The funeral was attended by a large number of old citizens.

CHOLERA OF THE YAZOO.—We have authentic information that several cases of cholera have occurred on the Yazoo, above Yazoo city, in the vicinity of the plantation of Mr. John Erskine, formerly of this city. No apprehension was felt of the disease spreading or continuing.

BEREAVEMENT.—The wife of Dr. S. Hinson, the well known dentist, died yesterday evening, after a lingering illness. She was a most worthy lady, who daily illustrated a large share of those christian graces which beautify the sex. We sympathize deeply with the afflicted husband in his bereavement.

ATTEMPT TO ROB A PRINTER.—Some chevalier d'industrie committed the unpardonable crime of attempting to rob a printer—Mr. Twyman, in the Southwestern publishing house—Thursday night. He entered the room and Mr. Twyman awoke and seized him. Quite a struggle ensued, but the thief managed to make his escape.

FOR BELOW.—The magnificent steamer Great Republic, commanded by that prince of officers, Capt. W. B. Donaldson, with Charley Drake and Sam Barr in the office, will be here this evening, ready to receive for New Orleans and intermediate points. The Great Republican is becoming as celebrated for speed as for the elegance of her cabin and staterooms, and those desirous of going south cannot do better than get aboard. Shippers will find it to their interest to remember the Great Republic. She will leave Sunday at 10 a.m.

ACCIDENT FROM AN EXPLOSION.—We regret to learn of a severe though not serious accident which befell Capt. John F. Ford, of the tug Nettie Jones, on Thursday. During an excursion to Island Hatchie, and while he was ramming a charge into a boat howitzer on board, a premature explosion occurred. The powder and flame issuing from the muzzle very severely burned his right arm and hand. The proper remedies were at once applied, and considerable relief afforded from the pain. He will be deprived of the use of his arm and hand for a few days.

BURGLARS BALKED.—A burglarious attempt on the business house at No. 218 Front street, Wednesday night, was foiled by the sound of steps in the vicinity. Before decamping the scoundrels had bored four holes in the door, with the view of removing or forcing the bolt. An attempt to enter Mr. James Loffet' grocery on the corner of Linden street, yesterday morning, was frustrated by the arrival of the police.

THE STEAMER PEOSTA, commanded by Capt. Mark R. Cheek, makes several trips daily during the fast of Arkansas to Mound City, Ark., where the excursionist can find plenty of pure air, fresh vegetables and enjoy good fishing, at trifling cost and by only two or three hours absence from the city. Our very recent experience enables us to assure our readers of these truths, and to commend the Peosta as a well kept and pleasant conveyance, under the charge of a courteous and obliging commander.

EMMONS & SON, No. 10 Jefferson street, have received New York Ledger, Chimney Corner, New York Weekly, Freeman's Journal, Littell's Living Age, Irish People, Turf, Field and Farm, Irish American, Criminal Zieting, Nesbit Clipper, Banner of Light, Literary Album, Boston Pilot, Sunday Times, Pleasant Hours, Comic Monthly, Yankee Notions, for August, and the American Journal of Horticulture, and the Horticultorist for July.

GAS CONSUMERS LOOK TO YOUR INTERESTS.—The Memphis Gayoso gas company are desirous to raise $100,000 additional stock. This amount will enable the company to have their works in operation by next winter; and if raised, this company can furnish gas at nearly half the present rates. This fact itself should induce gas consumers to give the new company their cordial and earnest support. The shares are fifty dollars each, and the company will not call for payments at present. Let every gas consumer come forward and do his duty in subscribing liberally to aid the furtherance of this much needed public work. The books are now open for subscriptions.

DEATH OF A MERCHANT.—Mr. T. T. Green, of the firm of T. T. Green & Co., grocers and commission merchants, Lee block, died at his residence on Hernando street Thursday evening. His death was the result of exposure incident to a fishing excursion a few days before. Mr. Green, though a young man, had attained a fine position as a merchant, and was generally esteemed. He was formerly a partner of Mr. Bolling in the banking business. His remains were followed to their last resting place Friday evening by his afflicted relatives and a large concourse of friends.

A PERFORMANCE NOT DOWN ON THE BILLS.—Mr. J. B. Gatti, the well-known confectioner, on North Court street, on Thursday morning temptingly displayed a large quantity of "fireworks" of various descriptions, to attract the attention of purchasers. About eleven o'clock a boy carelessly threw a "firecracker" among them, and induced an exhibition not down on the day's programme. In an instant the inmates of the establishment were frightened and astonished by an impromptu display of fireworks seemingly produced by no human agency. The firecrackers converted themselves into infantry and blazed away like Minie rifles on a small scale; the torpedoes did fierce and prolonged cannonading; while the Roman candles shot high in the air as signals. For a few moments the performance was as thrillingly interesting to the spectators as the celebrated "battle of the kegs" proved to the British in Philadelphia once upon a time. At last the "ammunition" was expended and quiet resumed. Mr. Gatti is minus about one hundred dollars in consequence of this involuntary contribution to "the day we celebrate."

Down.—From this date the retail price of "Morgan's Self-Rising Flour" is reduced to the old rates. Six pound packages, 75c; twelve-pound packages, $1 50; twenty-four pound packages, $3.

THE EVERLASTING PAVEMENT QUESTION.

ANOTHER STORMY SESSION OF THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN YESTERDAY.

Gen. Forrest Makes an Explanation of Some Matters to the Board.

An Alderman Charged with Having Been Offered a $5000 Bribe.

He Indignantly Denounces the Charge as False---No Action Taken.

Majority and Minority Reports Relative to Accepting the Bids.

The Board Adjourns Without Coming to a Vote.

A special meeting of the board of aldermen was held in the council chamber yesterday afternoon. Present: Chairman Hurbert, Aldermen Bowers, Ghee, Johnson, Cochran, Wilkerson, Amis, Lyon, Hebt, O'Donnell, Shaw, Townsend, Lemon, Smith and Pinsmore.

Alderman Johnson presented the following report of the committee appointed with reference to the mayor's message read at the last meeting of the board:

MEMPHIS, July 5, 1867.

To the Board of Mayor and Aldermen:

Your committee, to whom was referred the message of the mayor, for the purpose of investigating matters set forth in it in reference to the financial effect and interest to the city in having out the contract to carties for the pavement of the streets of the city, beg leave to submit the following report:

Your impartial investigation of this matter among many of the leading bankers and citizens of the city, resulted in their free and decided expression of opinion, that the interest of the city would be enhanced in making the contract with Messrs. Greenlaw & Jones for pavements, over that of Messrs. Hopper & Montgomery and Greenlaw & Jones, be rescinded.

G. B. JOHNSON,
H. LEMON,
HENRY J. LYNN,
Committee.

A motion to adjourn was here voted down.

Alderman Lynn moved that the report of the committee be adopted.

Alderman Amis opposed the motion, and characterized the proposition to give the contract to Jones & Greenlaw as the contemptible proposition he considered it, simply because Jones offered to pay $1000 more than Hopper & Montgomery and Greenlaw & Jones, he considered.

Alderman Johnson offered the following report, which was read:

A singular case was decided by the Boston supreme court this week. David Sears sued the Eastern railroad company for damages alleged to have resulted from the non-dispatch of a train on the road, according to the advertised time-table. On the day in question the 6:30 p.m. train was delayed till 11:15, to accommodate visitors to an exhibition, and notice of this was posted in several stations on the road. The court says that the defendants did not give sufficient notice of the change. The plaintiff recovered $10 and costs.
American enterprise is making rapid headway in Japan. Among the latest proposals of Americans in that far off country is to light up both Jeddo and Yokohama with gas. There are besides projects for railways, telegraphs, and all sorts of improvements; and the Japanese seem to take to these new movements with great relish.
A committee appointed by the millers and commission merchants of St. Louis have made a call for a meeting of all the millers in that city and its vicinity at the Union Merchants' exchange, on Wednesday, July 10th. The meeting is called to afford opportunity for interchange of ideas, and information as to crops, that may be of value in promoting a safe, legitimate and moderately profitable milling business for the ensuing season.
The attendance at the annual tobacco fair, held at Louisville on the 21 was very large. Six hundred hogsheads were offered. The first premium for manufacturing was awarded to Hart county, and was sold at $210. The second premium sold at $95 and the third at $55. The first premium cutting leaf was awarded to Owen county, and sold at $80. All were bona fide sales.
Complete returns for the month of June to the statistical division of the agricultural department corroborate and fortify the statements relative to wheat prospects, which we have heretofore given. A careful analysis of information from all the states shows that the total average in wheat is 10 to 15 per cent. greater than last year. In a majority of the states the breadth of winter wheat is quite as wide as usual, and that of spring wheat much greater. In the Ohio valley the average of winter wheat is less by 12 or 15 per cent., with a very heavy increase of spring sowing. The states showing any material decrease of average of winter wheat are Ohio, Indiana, Kansas and Texas. A large increase is indicated in Virginia, Georgia, Arkansas and Tennessee, and in the south generally, and a slight advance is shown in the New England and Middle states. The other states, excepting Texas, make a favorable comparison with last year's business on that stream is fair for the season.

PRO BONO PUBLICO!

The attention of all Sufferers is invited to the

ANTI-MALARIAL
BITTERS
—A SURE REMEDY—

IS here presented to the public for Intermittent Fevers (Chills and Fever), and all diseases arising from malarial poisoning. It is now a well established fact that nearly every disease of the human system originates in malarial disorder, or is greater or less dependent upon malaria poisoning, producing functional derangement of the digestive organs. Hence, in the erection of a remedy against this poisoning miasma, we strike at the root of the disease which is fostered and developed through its instrumentality.

ANTI-MALARIAL BITTERS

is an entirely original compound, having superiority over other remedies from the mode of combining the medicinal agent.
It has been extensively used, and up to to the present time has in no instance failed to give the most unqualified satisfaction. In the directions are strictly followed in cases of Intermittent Fever (Chills and Fever), no matter of how long standing, or of what degree of malignancy, it will fail or succumb to the use of these Bitters.

As a Tonic and Prophylactic

THE REMEDY IS WITHOUT EQUAL.

Severe cases of Indigestion, Derangements of Absorption and Assimilation, Biliousness, Uneasiness, Distension, Weight and Pains in the region of the Stomach, Loss of appetite, Constipation of the Bowels, Jaundice, Nausea, Headache, Muscular and General Debility, Disturbed Sleep, Cold Chills, Nervous Dread, Nervousness, Irritability, Mental Depression, etc., occurring in a malarial district, or in a patient who has spent some time in such district, and fever and ague will readily yield to the use of this unequaled Medicine.
Our own confidence in the merits of these Bitters, added to a testimony universal in the case of sufferers who have used them, and acted to the Remedy their unqualified approval, has induced us, at a very large expense, to secure the SOLE RIGHT to the manufacture of this article from the original recipe, which recipe has been experimented upon and satisfactorily proved to be superior to any compound in the treatment of the above mentioned diseases, by one of the most learned Physicians in the United States.

D. T. EVERTS & CO.,
Sole Manufacturers & Proprietors,
PETERSBURG, VA.

Read the following from among the many Certificates received by us:

FORTS FERRY, VA., Nov. 24, 1866.
I hereby certify that I have been suffering for over two weeks from severe attacks of Chills and Fever, for which I had taken medicine and gained but temporary relief, the chills coming on again in a few days. The Anti-Malarial Bitters were recommended to me, and I commenced taking them at once, the use of which was marked by immediate and certain relief from chills, since which time I find my general health improved in a very satisfactory manner.
I can conscientiously recommend the use of these Bitters to all sufferers from Intermittent Fever (never and ague), as a certain cure.
A. S. VALDEN.

NEAR FORT ELLIS, VA., Nov. 26, 1866.
Dear Sir—Having a severe attack of Chills contracted on the Lower Appomattox river, I tried your Anti-Malarial Bitters, and in a week was relieved entirely from them. I cheerfully recommend it to those who are bothered with Chills and Fever.
Respectfully and truly yours,
E. RUGEE.

E. T. EVERTS, Petersburg, Va.
The following certificate from S. W. Britton, Esq., speaks for itself:
PETERSBURG, VA., March 7, 1867.
D. T. EVERTS & Co.,
Gents—It is with pleasure that I can add my testimony to that now almost universally borne as to the merits of your Anti-Malarial Bitters. I had been suffering from constantly recurring attacks of Chills and Fever for nearly seven months, and during that time believe that I have tried nearly every remedy recommended for that disease, taking advantage, as well of the advice of the best physicians in the country, but without any benefit. I have simply to say that I used this medicine and was entirely cured. I, no doubt, would be this disease fail to try this remedy, and he will be surprised at the immediate and permanent effects he will receive.
S. W. BRITTON.

D. T. EVERTS,
SIR—Having been induced to try your valuable medicine in a severe case of Ague and Fever, contracted on the Lower James river, it gives me great pleasure to state that I have received entire relief almost instantaneously after using some months, all of which I had tried other remedies. I will here recommend all who are suffering from the malaria to give it a fair trial.
Respectfully yours,
JNO. WYTHE PARKS, Norfolk, Va.

D. T. EVERTS & Co., Petersburg, Va.
Gents—I hereby certify to the efficacy of your bitters in the treatment of Chills and Fever, especially with children. One boy, seven years old, had been suffering from chills for two or three months. I used your bitters, and they had the desired effect. I cheerfully recommend them to all who are suffering from Chills and Fever.
A. S. WILLIAMS.
Ford's Depot, Va., March 28, 1867.

[From the Petersburg Index.]
ANTI-MALARIAL BITTERS—This preparation of our neighbors is making friends in every direction. Below we copy from the Richmond Examiner an article recommending it. Fortunately for us our health is such as to need no drug, therefore we can only speak from opinion from experience, but the gentlemen attached to the Index can be known to us, and are willing to endorse them.
"Many compounds have been made by the heads of malarial districts, to give to the afflicted, but most of them have proved failures. Not so, however, with the new discovery of the Materia Medica of D. T. Everts & Co., of Petersburg; for, if we can place confidence in the general well known reputation of the Anti-Malarial Bitters, unsolicited and sold by these gentlemen, approach nearer the exhibition of an any other antidote that has ever been offered to the public, it is said to be a specific for Chills and Fever, and all diseases arising from malaria or miasmatic poisoning. Of the most excellent qualities and fondest quarantees of these bitters we have the first testimony in Mr. A. W. Burton, of Petersburg, and Mr. John Wilkins Parks, of Norfolk, gentlemen whose word cannot be questioned. Let all who are suffering from any of the complaints for which the bunch of digestive organs is best, procure a bottle of the Anti-Malarial Bitters."

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND BUSINESS.

The morning of the fourth opened out cloudy and wet, preventing many from going to the country to spend the day. The weather cleared off, however, by noon, and was pleasant. Yesterday was cloudy, with an occasional sprinkle of rain and a cool breeze during the day. Business on the wharf dull. The river at this point is rising slowly, being the effect of the high water coming out of the Missouri and upper Mississippi. As, however, it is falling at St. Louis and as high up as Dubuque, and is at a stand if not declining at St. Paul, we may look for the present swell to be but a small one. The Ohio is falling, with about four and a half feet in the canal at Louisville. The Cumberland is low, and our last advices from White and the Arkansas report those streams going down fast.

WANTED—THE PATENT

AURORA OIL.

We want men everywhere to study their own INTEREST. The right to manufacture and sell the Patent Aurora Oil in a single county will in six months than the largest farm in Kentucky will make in a whole year. The Aurora Oil will make it at less than one-half the price of refining by coals less than one-half the price of the Coal Oil, and the illuminating power of the Aurora Oil is as much superior to the Coal Oil as the Coal Oil is to a tallow candle, and is as free from explosive than a tallow candle. Any one can use it. No more explosive than a lamp filled with water. Aurora Oil will burn the Aurora Oil. It does not smoke the chimney and it does not smell—it will not grease or stain the finest linen—not even white cloth. The material for its manufacture is very cheap. One man can make seventy-five barrels per day. No machinery required. We will pay your fare to and from the city of Memphis and back while here, if we cannot prove all, and even more, than we have stated. A single county is a small fortune to the man of enterprise, and the right to a State is indeed worth. For further information apply to or address

ILLICIT INVOCATION OF "SPIRITS."—Yesterday Patrick Donley and Daniel Collins were arrested at the instance of Michael Whelan, charged with stealing three kegs of wine, the property of the aforesaid Whelan. The parties will be brought before Esquire Creighton on Tuesday.

MEMPHIS ROBBERS OVERHAULED IN ST. LOUIS.—A PORTION OF THE MONEY RECOVERED.—It will be remembered that on the night of the 20th ult., the room of Mr. E. Merriweather's premises, Mulberry street) of Louis Cole, declered night watchman at the Gayoso House, was robbed of a trunk containing $2,000 in cash. The robbers fled to St. Louis, where both were arrested the other day. Their names are John James and Henry McIntosh. Nearly $800 of the money was recovered. The prisoners arrived were brought back to the city by Mr. Morrison, deputy sheriff, who had been dispatched for them.

VOCAL MUSIC.—Mr. E. D. Tatum, of Richmond, Va., will give the first lesson in vocal music to the class in the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church, on Monday night at 8 o'clock. All who desire to improve themselves in vocal music, with a view to the enlargement of the class, are invited to attend.

EMMONS & SON, No. 10 Jefferson street, have received Harper's Weekly, Independent, Record, New York Ledger, Frank Leslie, Chimney Corner, Leisure Hours, New York Clipper, London Art Journal and the London Daily Times. Call on Emmons & Son for your Sunday reading matter.

SALE OF DAMAGED GOODS.—Messrs. M. Kraus & Co., No. 213 Main street, are giving some splendid bargains in the goods damaged by water at the late fire. They have a large assortment of dry goods, boots and shoes, hats and caps, etc., which they are closing out at very low rates. It would be well for not only our city customers but the country merchants to call and inspect the stock.

FOR THE NORTH.—To form an idea of the number of people going north by railroad every day, it is necessary to visit Larry Harmstad & Co.'s agency, corner of Main and Madison streets. They are selling tickets over the great through routes to all points north, east and west. Parties intending to go north would do well to call and procure through tickets over any of the great lines.

CHANGE OF TIME ON THE MEMPHIS AND OHIO RAILROAD.—An important change has been made on the Memphis and Ohio Railroad, taking effect to-day. Hereafter the trains will leave as follows: Night Express, 1 p.m.; Mail Express, 11 p.m. Arrive, Day Express, 10:40 a.m.; Mail Express, 8 p.m. The night express makes close connections at Louisville for all points north. Cars go through without change.

LUMBER.—Messrs. W. T. Swanwick & Co., Adams, between Front and Levee, have a large and well selected stock of seasoned lumber of every description; shingles, doors, sash, blinds, which they claim are offered lower than ever before in this place. These gentlemen are thoroughly going, honest and reliable business men, with whom it is a pleasure to deal. Remember their place and give them a call.

THE STREETS.—We will soon be able to announce that Memphis has one paved street. The Nicolson pavement on Second street lacks only two or three blocks of completion, and the work is rapidly progressing. The pavement on Adams, between Main and Front, is nearly finished, and the stone pavement on Front is steadily covering the old roadbed. The work of laying the blocks on Madison street, between Second and Front, will soon be commenced.

THE THREE BLACK CROWS DISTANCED.—We have not the felicity of the acquaintance of Fred. S. Palmer, lieutenant colonel and sub-assistant commissioner of the freedmen's bureau at this point, but are satisfied he either possesses a vivid imagination, or has been frightened out of his wits by rumormongers. Upon go other hypothesis can we account for the following nonsensical dispatch, which is published under a blazing title in the Nashville Banner of a recent date:

MEMPHIS, June 27, 1867.

To Major-Gen. W. P. Carlin, Asst. Com:

About seventy (70) persons have died of the cholera since June 13th—seven (7) deaths reported yesterday.

(Signed) FRED. S. PALMER,

Lieut Colonel and Sub. Asst. Com.

This lays the stories of the three black crows, Baron Munchausen, and Gulliver's Travels in Lilliput completely in the shade. It removes the dilapidated linen from all the shrubbery in this region.

NEWS IN BRIEF.—The "Sons of Ham" and "Daughters of Ham" have had gold medals voted them as the "most popular," etc. Imitating white folks.

—Twenty-four cases came up in police court yesterday. Drunk, disorderly and "all-h."

—The city is overrunning with persons possessing no visible means of support. Several were arrested on that charge Friday night.

—The discharge—no prosecution appearing—of officer Womble for killing a drunken man who called him impolite names, shows that some things can be done as well as others. The matter has not yet come before the criminal court, where it is to be hoped the question will be definitely settled whether foolish words from a drunken man sufficiently endanger a man's life to render shooting and killing the former no crime.

—Winney, an old negress who had been in Mr. E. T. Keel's family for many years, fell dead while drawing water at a cistern in Chelsea yesterday morning. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of death from apoplexy.

—A highly accomplished gentleman, answering to the name of G. Faley, was arrested by the police Friday night for indulging in the domestic recreation of beating. He was fined $25 yesterday. Cheap amusement.

—Ed. Kiernan is under arrest for alleged larceny of coffee, and Kate Nagle for obtaining goods under false pretenses.

Whose Dry Goods Store is that next to Ward & Leguere's drug store? It is M. Kraus & Co.'s Damaged Stock, where you can buy Dry Goods, Clothing, Boots and Shoes, etc., at your own price. Must be sold in thirty days. Remember 213 Main street is the place.

MORE BLOOD.

An Alleged Thief Summarily Disposed Of.

A negro named Dave Tilford, said to be a somewhat noted character, was shot and killed near the confluence of Madison street and Brinkley avenue, between nine and ten o'clock yesterday morning. It is stated that Tilford had stolen from a grocery in the vicinity a quantity of butter, with which he was endeavoring to decamp, when the porter, a negro named Houston, started in pursuit. Tilford refused to halt when ordered, and retained the stolen property, until, finding it necessary to defy it in order to increase his speed. The race was continued some time, and was finally terminated by the pursued receiving the contents of a single-barreled pistol. The shot took effect in Tilford's left shoulder, doubtless penetrating the heart. He ran a few steps, then staggered and fell down an embankment, dead. Houston, seeing the effect of the shot, immediately fled pursued by quite a number of colored people and policeman Gates, who had arrived. He soon replaced a number of fences and yards between himself and pursuers, and disappeared in the woods. At last accounts he had not been captured. Coroner Coffee held an inquest on Tilford's remains, and the verdict of the jury being in accordance with the facts stated above.

HOW THE RADICAL VOTE IS TO BE INCREASED IN THIS STATE.—That the radicals are sparing no effort to induce negroes from Arkansas and Mississippi to come to Memphis, perjure themselves, obtain registration certificates, and vote in the August election, there is not even the shadow of a doubt. The charge has been repeatedly made and not denied. A case in point came to our knowledge a few days ago. A planter in De Soto county, Miss., who works a large number of hands, was informed by one of them, recently, that a white man had been on the place urging them to come to Memphis and vote on election day, promising that they procured the necessary certificates. The planter, on making inquiry into the matter, ascertained the negro's statement to be true. The white man—doubtless some infamous emissary of the infamous Lincoln council of Memphis—had told the negroes that unless Brownlow was elected they would be forced back into slavery; that the conservatives were endeavoring to effect that object; and that the blacks everywhere must come to Tennessee to prevent it. The planter at once explained to his hands the true situation of affairs, and impressed upon them the fact that if they went to Tennessee and voted it would be through fraud, for which they would be liable to criminal prosecution. This settled the question, so far as that neighborhood was concerned, but the incident is worthy of publication in further illustration of the nefarious schemes employed by the radicals to perpetuate their power in Tennessee. If there is any thing to which this class will not stoop in furtherance of their ends, it has not yet transpired. They conferred the elective franchise upon the negro to use him as a tool, and he is playing the part assigned, wherever outlets are being waged.

THE CAMPAIGN—NECESSITY OF THE ORGANIZATION OF CONSERVATIVE CLUBS.—The necessity of organization in civil as well as political matters, is generally appreciated. A few men, thoroughly organized and acting in concert, can effect more than ten times their number who have given no such direction to their enthusiasm. For instance—at 9 o'clock, next Saturday night after ten minutes' reflection after ten. I don't know what the managers of the club think about it, but speaking from the standpoint of a victim, who has suffered materially in wear and tear of temper and boot-leather, I feel to perceive the justice or necessity of the practice. Of course, none of the officers of the company are aware of the fact, so I shall confidentially breathe into their ears that sweet secret—oh, how luscious—should in South Memphis; that these divinities with ripe lips and nectar that Jupiter sips," as a highly original friend remarked to me the other day, rightly attract to that quarter several hundred handsome and chivalric young gentlemen, whose manly bosoms beat with indignation at the thought of returning home at half past nine or ten o'clock. Think of a young man who, for three mortal hours has been hanging on the honey of the lips of his calanthe and looking love to eyes that squint it back again, as [illegible] remarks with a slight variation, starting home alone at eleven or twelve o'clock, tumbling into a mud-puddle and soiling his store clothes—all because his mind is beyond the reach of things sublunary? I've been there, and not only speak from personal experience, but from that of several other equally chivalric and ravishingly handsome young men. Besides, eighty of the citizens of that populous region would use the line in visiting the center of the city after nightfall, if assured of any means of returning home after the chickens go to roost. Gentlemen of the street railway company, have you any bowels of compassion? If so, please give us "return" cars on the Beal street line at ten, eleven and eleven and a half o'clock at night. Weddings will multiply, and if there are any old bachelors in your corporation, the gallant assistance in getting wives. Yours, feelingly, BUSTEDBOOTS.

THE CITY SCHOOLS.—REORGANIZATION FOR THE COMING YEAR—ELECTION OF SUPERINTENDENT AND TEACHERS.—At the latemeeting of the board of school visitors, Mr. W. Z. Mitchell was re-elected superintendent, he having already held the position two terms. The following teachers were chosen. In the list it will be seen the chivalrous Shattuck, for whom the board should at once create a professorship of feminine pugilism:

Principal Male High School.—Mr. Ernest A. Reinert.

Female High School.—Miss Jennie M. Higbee.

Principal Alabama Street School.—Mrs. Jennie Teager.

Graded School.—Mr. C. H. Brown, Mr. Horace E. Andrews, Mr. M. V. B. Mr. Chas. T. R. N. Thweatt, Mr. Chas. Williams, Mr. Chas. J. Hunter, Miss Mattie McAninch, Miss Mary A. Cairns, Miss Imogen Latham, Miss Emma Pettit, Miss Isabel T. Cairns, Miss Fannie Cairns, Miss Louisa Rock, Miss Georgia Sharpe, Miss Ellen Flaherty, Mrs. H. Hampton, Miss Maggie Ennis, Miss Emma Carroll, Miss Annie C. Baudeluhner, Miss Nettie Smith, Mrs. F. W. Smith, Miss Rose A. Webb, Miss Savenia Vondrau, Miss Julietta Cairns, Miss Mollie Johnston, Mrs. C. A. Shattuck, Miss Maggie Fealy, Miss Agnes Glynn, Mr. William Koch, gymnast.

Messrs. J. J. Peres, of the second ward and W. M. Harvey, of the sixth ward, resigned their positions as visitors.

The Mississippi Diarrhea Cordial attacks the radix or root of every disorder of the bowels. It will, most assuredly, refrain the ravages of disease, renovate the internal vessels, brace up and invigorate the dilapidated system as the dew and rain refresh the withered flower. Let no one who is afflicted with Diarrhea, Cholera Morbus, or Cholera, think of dying while this all-powerful, anticeptic and detergent remedy is within their reach.

Damaged Dry Goods, Clothing, Boots and Shoes must be sold in thirty days, regardless of cost or value, at M. Kraus & Co.'s, No. 213 Main street, next to Ward & Leguere's drug store.

A Rare Chance for Country Merchants and Planters to attend the Great Closing out Sale of Damaged Dry Goods, Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Notions, etc., at M. Kraus & Co.'s, 213 Main street, next to Ward & Leguere's drug store. Must be sold in thirty days.

A SLANDER REFUTED.

To the Citizens of Memphis.

It is always mortifying to a private citizen to be compelled to deny in a public journal a malicious slander, that circulates stealthily in private, to his discredit and the injury of his business. Yet, sometimes, the duty becomes so imperative that there is no alternative except to perform it.

The undersigned have been for some years in business as undertakers, in Nashville, under the firm name of W. R. Cornelius & Co., and for more than a year in Memphis, as McCafferty & Cornelius. He (W. R. Cornelius,) has resided in Nashville for some twenty-nine years, and it would not be necessary for him, there, to notice the slander of which we have to complain. We have endeavored to win success, not only by attention to our business, but by meriting, as men and citizens, the good opinion of the community in which each lives.

We learned some time since, from a lady, that a report was in circulation in Memphis that in 1865 or 1866, when we were both residing in Nashville, we refused to sell a coffin for the burial of a Confederate soldier, and gave some information to General Thomas which caused his prohibiting the removal of the body of a Confederate soldier from Nashville to Memphis, and this tale has of course been repeated by a gentleman of Memphis, who avows his belief of its truth, but declares that he will not inform us from whom he learned it, as his informant was a lady.

We have for some time been very well aware that this report has been used, as other discreditable means have, to injure us in our business, and by preventing us from receiving a share of the public patronage, to ultimately drive us from the city and leave the field entirely to others.

The report is false, from beginning to end, in the general and in particular, nor was there ever the least color for the invention of so infamous a slander. One of our firm (Mr. Cornelius) is a native of Pennsylvania, long resided in the South, and has all his feelings and with his whole heart a sympathizer with the Confederate cause. The other is a native-born Kentuckian, in every way loyal and true to the South. It would have been impossible for either to refuse to sell a coffin for the burial of a Confederate soldier. Either would gladly have given one, at any time, as they have given many.

The charge whispered against us is one which, if true, ought to lose us all patronage in this city, and the good opinion of all its people. If it is false, our business and our characters ought no longer to suffer and others have a right to know it. We have felt interest enough in the matter to give circulation to the report, to make any inquiry they choose in regard to it, and prove it if they can. They will find that there was never any foundation or colour for it, and that we have been unjustly maligned.

W. R. CORNELIUS,
J. B. MCCAFFERY.

MEMPHIS, July 7, 1867.

THE LATE WEDDING RECEPTION AT "BELMONT," NEAR NASHVILLE.—FABLE LAND AND A FAIRY COURT.—Although the nuptials of Dr. W. S. Heatham and Mrs. Ada Acklen, of Nashville, were celebrated at "Belmont," the palatial residence of the bride, have already been announced, the following description of the reception, on the 27th ult., to which many of our citizens were invited, will prove none the less interesting to our readers.

It is from the Banner, of the 28th, and reads like a tale of enchantment:

"It is written that after the exciting incidents which befell the "Merchant of Venice," the gentle lady Portia chased away the gloom of her Adriatic Isle and her despair to her Adriatic home, and gave a fete in honor of the happy issue of events, which rivalled in magnificence the most splendid entertainments of Sicilian and Tuscan nobility.

Bards have sung and Grecian and Oratorio, by the latter, speaking his usual "infinite deal of nothing," of course; the greatest folks of the neighboring aristocracy came to join the joyful occasion; and there was

"Dancing and song, and revelry,
Such dancing as had ne'er been,"

As the story goes.

"Not perhaps inferior to this superb fete of the fifteenth century, whereof poets and chroniclers have delighted to write, was the marriage rite which crowned the nuptials of two old families of Pennsylvania, long resident in the South, and which all his feelings and with his whole heart a sympathizer with the Confederate cause. The other is a native-born Kentuckian, in every way loyal and true to the South. It would have been impossible for either to refuse to sell a coffin for the burial of a Confederate soldier. THE LATE WEDDING RECEPTION AT "BELMONT," NEAR NASHVILLE.—FABLE LAND AND A FAIRY COURT.—Although the nuptials of Dr. W. S. Heatham and Mrs. Ada Acklen, of Nashville, were celebrated at "Belmont," the palatial residence of the bride, have already been announced, the following description of the reception, on the 27th ult., to which many of our citizens were invited, will prove none the less interesting to our readers.

It is from the Banner, of the 28th, and reads like a tale of enchantment:

"It is written that after the exciting incidents which befell the "Merchant of Venice," the gentle lady Portia chased away the gloom of her Adriatic Isle and her despair to her Adriatic home, and gave a fete in honor of the happy issue of events, which rivalled in magnificence the most splendid entertainments of Sicilian and Tuscan nobility.

Bards have sung and Grecian and Oratorio, by the latter, speaking his usual "infinite deal of nothing," of course; the greatest folks of the neighboring aristocracy came to join the joyful occasion; and there was

"Dancing and song, and revelry,
Such dancing as had ne'er been,"

As the story goes.

"Not perhaps inferior to this superb fete of the fifteenth century, whereof poets and chroniclers have delighted to write, was the marriage rite which crowned the nuptials of two old families of Pennsylvania, long resident in the South, and filled the halls of a modern Belmont, not less magnificent than its ancient namesake, with the glitter of all that is lovely and bright within the circle of many happy smiles.

"The tout ensemble of the place, the mise en scene as one approached by the Hillsboro pike—was witchingly picturesque. Looking across the hedge and the meadow, the grounds, brilliantly illuminated, had the appearance of a swarm of fire-flies entangled in a silver-braid, or of a magic city, viewed at night across darkrolling billows of invisible green, or, to come down to reality, like a view of the Champs Elysee and the Place de la Concorde seen from the Corps Legislatif, the receiving between and the gaudy life of the Rue de Rivoli stretching off in the distance. A nearer approach did not entice the mind from its enchantment. The carriage rattled over the winding avenue with its variegated lamps, and entered the open, upswelling lawn, with its towers, arbors, rustic temples, statuary, all streaming with light of many colors, and fairy-land stretched around us with its glow and inspiration. Have you read Lalla Rookh? Were you ever in Bagdad? Is your taste Persian or Arabic? Here was the orient, the far-famed, fabled realm, of which, as infants, we have read of, which, as mortal men, we may see but once in a lifetime. Versailles is very fine; but Belmont—our rural interior, Tennessee palace of the beautiful, court of the aristocratic democracy of the far southwest—is fine also. There is certainly not its like in the land, and on Thursday evening it shone with unwonted lustre. In these gaily lighted grounds the most charming women floated, more dropped like pearls with waterfalls from unseen depths, fountains were playing, whilst over all the mansion rose, blazing with a thousand glowing jets and prisms of illumination. It is not good manners to name the company in detail, nor would it be quite possible if it were most masterly. We could, indeed, describe the costume of Miss Brown, and decant upon the toilette of Mrs. Jones, but we should be sure in the crowd, the press and the hurry to neglect the Misses Smith, or say something that might wound the delicate sensibilities of the Robinsons and Johnsons. We forbear. Nashville, proverbial for its lovely women and gorgeous dresses, was out in all its glory. There were diamonds in abundance, and satins and laces in abundance. There were bright eyes too, and ruby lips and rosy checks—nature's own luxuriant handicraft—that outshone both milliner and modiste. Whilst the queen and hostess—the gentle Portia of the night—like a young girl rather than a great leader of society—moved from point to point with a gracious and graceful presence that filled all hearts with admiration and respect. And, in this connection, why should we not mention and congratulate the genial and accomplished gentleman who has fallen heir to a treasure so inestimable! Happy man! Fortunate gentleman! The doctors are indeed a lucky race! The example of this one half induces one to devote the balance of his life to that art, by which it seems one may receive some of the blessings which he confers. Surely no one deserves them better, and no one will wear them with a more generous or more manly grace.

"It is not easy to write about these personal concerns. Yet the prominence of the parties, and the splendor of the occasion, command a share of public attention. Why should not a properly pass festival fete without a properly pass more than we could pass unnoticed some other festival from which the elite of the community drew happiness, inspiration, life. It will be long remembered. To many perhaps it was the dawn of a new delicious existence. And so we record it; and we wish for it and its household many, very many, returns in the years that are to be for them and us."

TABERNACLE ENTERTAINMENT.—The entertainment at the Tabernacle next Tuesday evening will consist of recitations and music. The following elocutionists have volunteered: Miss Emma Straus, Harry Sessoms, Jake Seessel, W. Murphy, George Washington, Eugene Lehman, E. N. Freeman, Mr. Levy Lou Leubrie, Frank P. Pope, James H. Sullivan. Vocal and instrumental music will be rendered by Misses Leora Williamson, Hettie Crawford, Tillie Smith, Stella Knode, Maggie Smith, Lillie Knode, Mrs. Mahoney, Mr. Henry Scranton, Mr. J. H. Mahoney and Mr. A. C. Brown and others. Among the musical selections are quartette, "We Have Only Time," duo, "The Refugee;" solo, "Good bye at the Door," "Come Home Father"—piano and flute accompaniment, "I'll Follow Thee;" La Manola, "Pass under the Rod," Leaf by leaf the Rose Fell," selection from Norma, Era Diavolo, etc. Exercises commence precisely at 8 o'clock. Admission only fifty cents. Remember the widows and orphans.

Great Attraction.—To all whom it may concern: Know this day, after making a trip around the world, returned to my old home in Memphis, and all my old friends and acquaintances, and new ones, are cordially invited to partake of a grand free lunch, and listen to some delightful music, on Monday morning next, at the Mozart Hotel, No. 35 Monroe street.

Respectfully, A. MARZORATTI.

Gentlemen Who Want Cloths, Cassimeres, Ready-made Clothing, Shirts, Drawers, Socks, Neckties, Umbrellas and a complete line of Gents' Furnishing Goods, attend the Great Closing Out Sale of Damaged Goods at M. Kraus & Co.'s, 213 Main street, next to Ward & Leguere's drug store.

SUICIDE.

A Colored Woman Takes Laudanum with Fatal Effect.

"One more unfortunate,
Weary of breath,
Rashly import-inate,
Gone to her death."

Yesterday a young and handsome mulatto woman, known as Emma Wright, committed suicide at her apartments on Causey street, by taking laudanum. She had, it is said, quarreled with some man with whom she lived. Tears, poison and death—the old story over again.

Lon Church can dress the hair
In any style to suit the fair;
One can manufacture a waterfall,
And work it up on top in a ball
So tight that it will prevent a sneeze,
Elevated at an angle of sixty-nine degrees.

GRAND BALL.—We understand that a grand opening fancy dress ball will come off at the Iaka Springs hotel, on Thursday, July 11th, under the auspices of Messrs. Patterson, Wright & Co., which will doubtless be a magnificent affair, and largely attended by the devotees of Terpsichore and lovers of pleasure generally. The management is a guarantee that everything will be conducted in the most elegant and recherche style.

REAL ESTATE AGENTS.—Under the head of new advertisements appears the card of Messrs. Kenny & Porter, real estate brokers and general agents. These gentlemen are well known to the citizens of Memphis and vicinity, the senior partner having been for a long time engineer on the Mississippi levees, and is well known to be a gentleman of the highest practical experience in his profession and of undoubted veracity. Mr. Porter is an old real estate broker, and is thoroughly familiar with the duties pertaining to his business. We commend them to the public.

MARRIED.—At Amite, Louisiana, July 2, 1867, by Rev. J. C. Graham, Joseph P. Angell, of Memphis, Tennessee, to Miss Emma C. Dobyns, daughter of the late Col. T. J. Dobyns. A bright and beautiful being—an angel in reality—becomes one by law. Our young friend has secured a jewel more rare and priceless than any he has offered for sale, and we trust he will prize her as an invaluable treasure. May these two souls, with but a single thought, enjoy a future of peace and happiness, and plenty of angels will gather around, to bless and comfort them in life's weary pilgrimage.

NORTHWESTERN MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.—This company enjoys the reputation of being one of the most substantial and reliable institutions in the country, being an entirely mutual company with stockholders to share the division of the profits. The paramount object of the managers has been to conduct the business of the concern on equitable principles and to make of it a model life insurance company, and its rapid growth and great success testifies abundantly as to its merits and the popularity of the company and its management. The agent at this place, Mr. J. S. Chapin, is a gentleman of intelligence and perfect reliability and will be glad to meet his friends and the public in quest of information in regard to the company at his office, No. 22 Madison street. See card.

THE REIGN OF BURGLARY.—Between eight and nine o'clock yesterday the room of Mr. W. C. Potter, the well known druggist, was entered by a burglar, during Mr. P.'s absence at breakfast. From the appearance of the door, it is evident that the thief entered through the transom in effecting his entrance and afterward forced the lock of the door from the inside. A gold watch, worth $150, which Mr. Potter had carelessly left on the mantle, a fine black silk dress (recently from the tropics new), and a sack coat, were the fruits of the exploit, as Mr. P. discovered to his astonishment on returning for the noon lunch. To induce a first class ruction in the vicinity of No. 59 Jefferson street, it is only necessary to ask our friend Potter the "time o' day." A burglar who attempted to enter the residence of Mr. Bingham on Main street below Vance, Friday night, was greeted by three pistol shots, which caused him to hurriedly execute a flank movement and retire greatly demoralized. Some clothing and a small sum in money were the results of a burglarious entrance into the Mississippi House, near the Mississippi and Tennessee railroad depot Friday night. Mr. D. A. Johnson's watch-repairing shop, No. 4 McCall street, was robbed in the absence of the proprietor, by two negro boys. Seizing the opportunity presented, they rushed in, snatched a gold watch, two silver watches, a watch chain and pin and ran. Of course the young rascals escaped.

STREET TALK ABOUT THE PAVEMENTS.—The somewhat extraordinary proceedings of the board of mayor and aldermen Friday afternoon produced no little comment on the streets yesterday. It was generally agreed that the passed few sessions had developed a prodigious quantity of what Orpheus C. Kerr would term "strategy, my boy." The thousand dollar bribery question was pronounced a dexterous achievement in that line, and the five thousand dollar affair of Forty-seven, in the estimation of a Bunker Hill Hector, whose grandfather had "fit" in the revolution, was one of the most sublime flank movements of the age. A veteran, who had previously entertained the old fogy idea that Napoleon developed a few strategic qualities at Jena, Ulm and Lobau, backed down from his position on reading our report yesterday, and threw his history into the fire. There is no doubt that for the nonce our city fathers have abandoned legislation for strategy. We hope it will be found that strategy is more conducive to the public interests than the old way of doing things; because what we have seen of it convinces us that it is just as easy as falling off a log.

Cured in from Two to Six Days, without the Use of Mercury, Change of Diet, or Hindrance from Business at

THE GOOD SAMARITAN MEDICAL OFFICE,

NO matter how bad, or how long standing! Liver Disease, Scrofula, Cancers and Pox Ulcers, Mercurial Diseases, Asthma, Paralysis and Palsy, Fits, Go to Pieces, Chronic Diarrhœa, Female Diseases and Irregularities, Erysipelas, Sick Headache, Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Gout and Chronic Sore Eyes.
My terms are very moderate, and money refunded in every case I undertake to cure and fail. When the patient does his part, and unless he follows direction, it is useless to undertake to treat those diseases, as no Medicine but or will probably ever be discovered that will cure, if men violate continually the laws of nature and the healing and restoring power of medicine.

MEMPHIS APPEAL

For the Memphis Appeal.]
AFTER THE BATTLE.

'Tis o'er; all heaven and earth are still,
From sireen to plain, from plain to hill;
The night has muffled the brow in balm
Seems but the breath of Eden's calm,
Pinks on the Watchman's solemn tread
Amid this city of the dead.
No fiery blade is circling o'er
The mortal shout is fled--no more.

'Tis past: the fiery strife is done;
The victor's calm, the conquered's gone.
And friend and foe together s ain,
Like reconciled in the Go-plain.
Death forms a friendship in a day.
A truce might sealed with common clay.
And lads till war shall come its roar,
And battle-fields are stained no more.

'Tis done; they struggled well and long;
And guardian legend, tale and song
Shall yet to listening ages tell
How each grim soldier fought and fell,
Which proved best heart and weaponed hand
In fighting fight and Fatherland!
Ah, well! the warrior's toil is o'er,
The brow's low-bent beats no more!

They sleep. O, Forest! drop on thy leaves
In sorrow--ye their silent graves!
O, Heaven! guard their hallowed dust,
Though blade and bayonet shall rust!
Kind PATRIOT! let thy pity flow
And soothe each stricken mourner's woe!
Long o'er their fame the cypress shall shoot,
Where fiery conflicts are no more.

O FREEMEN! let no lobby stand
First to our gates--and our land;
Let each be forum in the right,
By grace as well as valor's might!
For then on banner's fold shall wave
No foe--no sword--no dead brave.
Then will the cannon cease its roar,
And Freedom learn to war no more.
BRAYDOGLE.
MEMPHIS, July 4, 1867.

"ALL QUIET ALONG THE POTOMAC TO-NIGHT"

The following was published during the war, and we reproduce it for its beauty:

All quiet along the Potomac to-night,
Except now and then a stray picket
Is shot as he walks on his post to and fro,
By a rifle-man hid in a thicket.
'Tis nothing--a private or two, now and then,
Will not count in the news of the battle;
Not an officer lost--only one of the men,
Moaning out, all alone, the death-rattle.

All quiet along the Potomac to-night,
Where the soldiers lie peacefully dreaming;
Their tents in the rays of the clear autumn moon,
Or the light of the watch-fires, are gleaming;
A tramp--a blank shadow--the midnight wind
Through the forest leaves softly is creeping,
While the stars up above with their glittering eyes
Keep guard, for the army is sleeping.

There's only the sound of the lone sentry's tread,
As he tramps from the rock to the fountain,
And thinks of the two on the low trundle bed,
Far away in the cot on the mountain:
His musket falls slack, and his face, dark and grim,
Grows gentle with memories tender,
As he mutters a prayer for the children asleep,
For their mother--may Heaven defend her!

The moon seems to shine now as brightly as then
That night, when the love yet unspoken
Leaped up to his lips, and when low-murmured vows
Were pledged to be ever unbroken:
Then drawing his sleeve roughly over his eyes,
He dashes off tears that are welling,
And gathers his gun closer up to its place,
As if to keep down the heart-swelling.

He passes the fountain, the blasted pine tree,
The sentry is tramping as I weary;
Yet only and naught save the cloud-belt of night
Toward the shades of a forest so dreary.
How fitful is the light wind that rustles the leaves?
How ghostly the shadows it throws!
Was it the moonlight so wondrously flashing
It looked like a rifle--Ha! Mary, good-bye!
And the life-blood is ebbing and flashing.

All quiet along the Potomac to-night,
No sound, save the rush of the river;
While soft falls the dew on the face of the dead,
The picket's off duty forever!

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL,
MEMPHIS, July 6, 1867.

Gold has declined, slightly since yesterday, and dealers offer but 37½c for the small amounts offered.
In silver we have but little change to note. The offerings are small--20 to 22c is the buying figure for halves and quarters; 34 to 36c could be realized for Mexican dimes.
City scrip is dull and drooping. It will be so until our city council cease to play the part of partisans and adopt such course in the pavement question as will be to the best interests of our city and its citizens. The result will be that our city will go unpaved, and property holders on Main street will have very serious cause to complain against those who, by bad management, have driven trade on to other streets. The offering rate for scrip to-day was 68c, selling at 70c.
County scrip is dull, with no demand on the part of dealers, very few of whom are buying. 75 to 80c is the buying rate, and 85c selling.
Police scrip is dull. Brokers are not offering to buy. In many instances 60c is the best offer made, while others would not buy for a small lot. Dealers sell at 75 to 76c.
Uncurrent money has not improved since our last and transactions are small.
Bonds and stocks are dull and nominal.
Considerable commotion has been caused by the discovery that prominent bankers and brokers of New York have been in the habit of bribing the messenger of the telegraph office to submit to their inspection, before delivering to their owners, the dispatches of the associated press by the Atlantic cable. The fact that the news "leaked out" somehow has been known for some time, and Mr. Pinkerton, the well known detective officer, has finally solved the mystery. Probably the whole plan of operations, with the names of the parties involved, will be made public before long.
The street railroads in New York are said to be dangerous to life and property. If so, then what must be the danger arising from the railroad in our city, where huge rails and stringers in many cases stick up nearly a foot above the level of the street. The Stockholder says:
The time will come when in New York and other cities no rails will be permitted to be laid, or to remain, on the surface of streets, impeding travel and making the city unsightly. In this and other cities, speculators, seeing the streets lying out of doors without visible owners, appropriated them for railways--a broad larceny of land. Our friend Train tried the same thing in London and got into prison thereby. In every case in our own cities the railway projectors should have been put to purchase the right of way on land parallel to the avenue, and to that plan the matter will come at last.
A New York exchange of the 1st says:
The month of June closes upon an easy market for money, the bank statement of the past fortnight having added about twelve millions of dollars to the greenbacks held against deposits and circulation. The quarterly statements of the Philadelphia banks are now made up, without trouble to themselves or disturbance to the money market, and will be forwarded to Washington to-day.

Business was not dull as usual to-day. Some very fair shipments were made, and the week went out with much better indications of life than it opened. There is a very decided tendency in the markets to advance, but little change to note. The offerings are small--26 to 27c is the buying figure for halves and quarters; 34 to 36c could be realized for Mexican dimes.
City scrip is dull and drooping. It will be so until our city council cease to play the part of partisans and adopt such course in the pavement question as will be to the best interests of our city and its citizens. The result will be that our city will go unpaved, and property holders on Main street will have very serious cause to complain against those who, by bad management, have driven trade on to other streets. The offering rate for scrip to-day was 68c, selling at 70c.
County scrip is dull, with no demand on the part of dealers, very few of whom are buying. 75 to 80c is the buying rate, and 85c selling.
Police scrip is dull. Brokers are not offering to buy. In many instances 60c is the best offer made, while others would not buy for a small lot. Dealers sell at 75 to 76c.
Uncurrent money has not improved since our last and transactions are small.
Bonds and stocks are dull and nominal.
Considerable commotion has been caused by the discovery that prominent bankers and brokers of New York have been in the habit of bribing the messenger of the telegraph office to submit to their inspection, before delivering to their owners, the dispatches of the associated press by the Atlantic cable. The fact that the news "leaked out" somehow has been known for some time, and Mr. Pinkerton, the well known detective officer, has finally solved the mystery. Probably the whole plan of operations, with the names of the parties involved, will be made public before long.
The street railroads in New York are said to be dangerous to life and property. If so, then what must be the danger arising from the railroad in our city, where huge rails and stringers in many cases stick up nearly a foot above the level of the street. The Stockholder says:
The time will come when in New York and other cities no rails will be permitted to be laid, or to remain, on the surface of streets, impeding travel and making the city unsightly. In this and other cities, speculators, seeing the streets lying out of doors without visible owners, appropriated them for railways--a broad larceny of land. Our friend Train tried the same thing in London and got into prison thereby. In every case in our own cities the railway projectors should have been put to purchase the right of way on land parallel to the avenue, and to that plan the matter will come at last.
A New York exchange of the 1st says:
The month of June closes upon an easy market for money, the bank statement of the past fortnight having added about twelve millions of dollars to the greenbacks held against deposits and circulation. The quarterly statements of the Philadelphia banks are now made up, without trouble to themselves or disturbance to the money market, and will be forwarded to Washington to-day.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND BUSINESS.

The weather during the day remains warm, but the nights are cool and pleasant. Business was only moderately active on the landing, but the Ada and the Gleaner went out with very fair trips. The latter, however, has been patiently waiting since the early part of the week. The river here is at a stand, and is falling at St. Louis and above to St. Paul. The Missouri continues to rise, but not with much rapidity. The Ohio is falling, with but little over four feet in the canal.

Arrivals.

Steamer Henry Ames, New Orleans.
" Great Republic, St. Louis.
" Gen. Quitman, New Orleans.

Departures.

Steamer Henry Ames, St. Louis.
" Marble City, St. Louis.
" Gleaner, Arkansas river.
" Dan. Able, Vicksburg.
" Victoria, Haile's Point.

Boats in Port.

Great Republic, Gen. Quitman, Florence Trainer.

MISCELLANEOUS.

We put the Great Republic and Gen Quitman in port, as both are due, but had not arrived at a late hour last night. As they are swift and reliable we think they will not disappoint our or readers, as they will be found at the landing this morning.
The Marble City went out with a large passenger trip, as usual. She had families bound for Lake Itaska or some other cool place in Minnesota. Among her St. Louis passengers we noticed Mr. A. Lotis--passengers we noticed Mr. A. Lotis--passengers we noticed Mr. A. Lotis. We guess he's a St. Louis on a short trip, and we would commend him heartily to our friends of the Kwill in that "Constantinople of the of the west."
The Gleaner left for Arkansas river with a very fair trip.
The Belle Memphis will leave for St. Louis on Monday next. Capt. Dan. Musselman will be in command as usual, and Mr. George Deane, well known in this city, will be found in the office. Accept we will be found an obliging gentleman and the Belle will now become more popular than she ever was before.
The Great Republic, Capt. Donaldson, will be in port this morning. Those wishing to enjoy a trip to the Crescent City on one of the most magnificent passenger packets afloat, have now an opportunity of doing so. Capt. Donaldson has achieved a name that will never die while fine steamers are admired. Charley Dravo and Sam. Barr are associated in the office, and will leave no effort untried to make passengers at home. The Republic starts south at 10 r.m.
The Mollie Hambleton will be in port to-day and will return to St. Francis river on Tuesday. Capt. Bowman commands and Tom. Day is chief clerk.
The "old reliable" Commercial, Capt. Ashford, will depart for White river on Tuesday next. John Sullivan and Alick Waddell are clerks.
The Mary Swan, Capt. Dave Hukill, will leave for Cairo and Evansville at 5 p.m. Monday.
The Harry Dean will leave for Cincinnati on Tuesday at 5 p.m., Capt. Blaisdel in command.
The first experiments tried to test the practicability of employing petroleum for generating steam were by Shaw & Linton, in Philadelphia. They continued during five months. In that arrangement the apparatus used was an ordinary tubular locomotive form of boiler, containing fifteen tubes two inches in diameter and fifty-six inches in length; a small steam engine in connection with it, operating a pump supplying water to the boiler; with an additional boiler of very small dimensions placed in the heating apparatus to provide a steam jet, previous to firing up with the oil, in the absence of other means for procuring the necessary artificial draft until steam was raised in the larger boiler.
Capts. Hand and Cotton, owners of the tugs A. M. Ball and Nellie Cotton, entertained the Suffaloniates with a moved excursion the other day. Capt. Hand wagered $500 that his tug, the A. M. Ball, would pull the other out of the harbor into the lake. Steam was raised, the whistles started an infernal concert, the tugs hitched together and started in opposite directions. After a severe and rather protracted contest the Nellie Cotton was compelled to follow the other tug outside the lighthouse.
The Sucker Sate put up large signs on her wheel-houses, late last trip to St. Paul. They read as follows:
"1. Beat the Phil. Sheridan to Burlington, Davenport and Dubuque. Blood will tell on a long heat."
"2. Fastest time on record--41 hours and 5 minutes from St. Louis to Dubuque."
As she approached the levee at St. Paul she put out another one which read thus:
"3. Fastest time on record from St. Louis to St. Paul--2 days, 23 hours, 48 minutes from port to port."
As soon as she reached the levee a good portion of the crowd rushed aboard and congratulated the officers upon having made this unusual time.

The Merchants' Exchange Prices Current of this morning gives the following brief account of the crop prospects throughout the south:
In Tennessee the wheat crop is larger than an average, as a general thing free from rust, and has been secured in good condition. Corn promises an abundant yield. Oats look well, as also do potatoes. The
